National Public Health Emergency

There is not a person in America who has not been touched by addiction. As you're listening to this, someone you may know is abusing drugs or alcohol.

A new report released by the Center for Disease Control in March 2018 found "Drug overdoses killed 63,632 Americans in 2016. Deaths increased in all categories of drugs examined for men and women, people ages 15 and older, all races and ethnicities, and across all levels of urbanization.

Sober Network Inc. is in the business of providing innovative digital solutions and award-winning mobile applications that address the multiple and varying needs of the population and the substance abuse treatment industry.

Summary

Sober Network is actively engaged in revolutionizing the treatment industry by creating its own token economy. The intent is to offer fresh ideas to an industry that relies on dated interventions. By being responsive to a new generation of substance users whose primary method of communication lies in the palm of their hand, we can impact massive social change. Our technology expertise implemented on our various brands demonstrates a thorough understanding of how we get things done. We show the ability and solutions on multiple platforms and are poised to prove technology along with incentivized human accountability, produces measurable, positive outcomes.
